Indian Public Health Standards for ayush healthcare facilities

Strategic collaboration between the Ministry of Ayush and the Indian Council of Medical Research aims at advancing integrative health research, integrate traditional ayush practices with modern medical science and take India to the forefront of holistic healthcare innovations

AAT News Service

TIME has come for integrated medicine. Traditional healthcare will be a new fashion trend of the coming future. Collaborative research with the Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR) in ayush is extremely important as it bridges the gap between traditional knowledge and modern scientific research, promoting a synergistic approach to healthcare, said Mansukh Mandaviya, Union Minister for Health and Family Welfare.

Launching the 'Indian Public Health Standards (IPHS) for Ayush Healthcare Facilities' during the inaugural ceremony of 27th Convocation & 29th National Seminar of Rashtriya Ayurveda Vidyapeeth 'Ayurvedo Amritanam', in New Delhi, the minister said Ayush-ICMR Advanced Centre for Integrative Health Research (AI-ACIHR) at select AIIMS will be set up across the nation. Collaborative research in ayush is extremely important as it bridges the gap between traditional knowledge and modern scientific research, promoting a synergistic approach to healthcare.

"Ayurveda is a part of our culture, heritage and tradition. It is still being followed in our everyday practice. This strategic collaboration aims at advancing integrative health research, integrate traditional ayush practices with modern medical science and take India to the forefront of holistic healthcare innovations," said Mr Mandaviya.

Highlighting that the government is following an integrative approach so as to take the best practices from both the disciplines - ayurveda and allopathy - the minister said that "the Central government is working towards providing quality-oriented healthcare in response to increasing needs of the people of the country. In this direction, the IPHS for Ayush Healthcare Failities were published by the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare as a set of uniform standards to improve the quality of healthcare delivery. By adopting these reforms, it is expected that the states/UTs will be able to develop ayush healthcare services with set standards and quality infrastructure, thereby enabling the public to avail the benefits of ayush medical services for all healthcare.

Addressing the launching ceremony, Secretary, Ministry of Ayush, Rajesh Kotecha said, "since its inception in 2014, the Ministry of Ayush has embarked on a journey of resilience, innovation, and holistic healthcare, revolutionising the ayush sector. Significant strides have been made in integrating evidence-based ayush systems into public healthcare, driving research, and fostering innovation.

"Today, we are proud to launch a comprehensive booklet PPHS for Ayush Hospitals and Ayushman Arogya Mandir showcasing the decadal achievements, which serves as a testament to the ministry's commitment to holistic healthcare and its vision for a healthier and more vibrant India".

AI-ACIHR are being set up to develop integrative health research through integrating ayush system with conventional biomedicine, and modern technology to bring integrative health care to the people for improved patient outcome through innovations related to diagnostics, preventive, health promotive as well as treatment methods. The centre will harness the mutual understanding and research environment between the different systems of medicine leading to integrative health research.

Devendra Triguna, President Governing Body, Rashtriya Ayurveda Vidyapeeth, New Delhi; Jayant Deopujari, Chairman, National Commission for Indian System of Medicine; Atul Goel, Director-General, Directorate General of Health Services; Anu Nagar, Joint Secretary, Department of Health Research, Ministry of Health and Family Welfare; and M Shrinivasan, Director, AIIMS-Delhi, were also present at the ceremony.
